

Date: September 20, 2017

Terms

Disclaimer and Terms of Use

The material found on this website is intended for information purposes only and does not constitute legal advice. You should not act or fail to act on anything based on any of the material contained herein without first consulting with a lawyer. The reading, sending or receiving of information from or via the website does not create a lawyer-client relationship. Cassels Brock strives to ensure accuracy in the materials posted here but we do not guarantee the accuracy or completeness of any of the information posted to this website and we do not necessarily endorse information found on any website which is linked to or from this website. Cassels Brock does not guarantee the confidentiality of any email transmission from or via the website.

Unless otherwise noted, all content on this site (the "Content") including images, illustrations, designs, icons, photographs, video and audio clips, and written and other materials are copyrights, trade-marks and/or other intellectual properties owned, controlled or licensed by Cassels Brock. The Content may not be otherwise used, reproduced, broadcast, published, downloaded, reuploaded or retransmitted without the prior written permission of Cassels Brock. You may, however, view and download one copy of our articles, newsletters, bios, video and audio clips and seminar materials to your personal computer for your personal, non-commercial use only, provided you keep intact all copyright and other proprietary notices that are on that material.

Cassels Brock & Blackwell LLP, Cassels Brock, Dare to Care and the CB logo are trade-marks of Cassels Brock & Blackwell LLP. All rights reserved.