Robert Cohen Discusses Mental Health with Canadian Lawyer

Publish: 05/21/2019

Robert Cohen was quoted in the May edition of Canadian Lawyer magazine in the article “Mental Health’s Toll” which looks at mental health in the legal profession and the stigma that still surrounds it.

Writes Jim Middlemiss: “One law firm working to change the culture is Cassels Brock & Blackwell LLP. It has created professional development programs centred on mental health and wellness.”

Says Robert: “We have tried to be at the forefront of making mental health resources available to all members of the firm.”
